

TIME MANAGEMENT

We have email, instant messaging, social media, video conferencing and the smart-phone. But the price of that connectedness is overwhelm!

Instead of formulating a plan at the start of the week, or the start of the day, most people simply turn on their email and start working their way through the new messages. Control over the day, and what needs to be done during it, is handed over to the inbox. Important tasks get interrupted and delayed because people are not managing their activity or their projects effectively.

In this 4 hour course, the focus is on goal setting, prioritising and planning. We cannot manage time – the fact is we all get allocated the same number of hours every day – what we can manage however, is the activity we choose to fill our time with. And this is the secret to high personal productivity.

We all have the same amount of time available to us each day, but some people seem to get a lot more done than others. It's what we do with time that matters.
