

MASTER BUILDERS-BANKWEST

Economics Breakfast

Master Builders Australia's Chief Economist Shane Garrett will review latest developments in the Perth housing market and explore prospects for residential and non-residential building locally over the coming few years. He will also cover off on the implications for the building sector of the banking Royal Commission's report, the 2019/2020 Budget and the federal election. Tickets to the Master Builders-Bankwest Economics Breakfast are all inclusive of a delicious hot-plated breakfast with tea and coffee.

SHANE GARRET, CHIEF ECONOMIST, MASTER BUILDERS AUSTRALIA

Shane Garrett has recently taken up the position of Chief Economist at Master Builders Australia. Shane has over 15 years' experience as economist, having previously worked in Ireland and the UK. He moved to Australia in 2012 to take up a position in the economic regulation arm of a large energy company in Perth. He then made the journey cross country to Canberra to work with the Housing Industry Association as Senior Economist.

As part of this role, Shane travelled extensively across Australia to engage with those employed in the residential building industry and outline latest forecasts for new home building. He was awarded a Joint Honours Degree in Economics and Maths at University College Cork in 2002 and completed a Masters Degree in Business Economics the following year. Shane regularly offers commentary on the housing market and economy to national and regional newspapers, radio and television.
