

Jackson McDonald seminar

Here's what you need to know about doing business today

We are proud of our tradition of providing commercial and pragmatic advice to the owners and operators of companies and organisations based in, or doing business in WA.

We feel its important that we share with you some of our insights that will help you to run your business in these turbulent times; to keep on the right side of new regulations/laws, and help protect your hard earned wealth.

We have organised a series of short 15 minute presentations covering things you need to know doing business today.

We encourage you to share this with your colleagues and should they wish to attend please ensure they register.

Topics to be covered

- Summarise the recently released Fiocco report and discuss its potential implications for payment security for those working in the building, construction, engineering and mining industries.
- Structuring your workforce correctly is critical. Not only to ensure that you can meet operational demands but to avoid exposure to significant legal claims for non-payment of entitlements and civil penalties. The challenges relating to engaging casual employees continues in 2019 with multiple class actions being commenced and unions targeting these types of arrangements. Find out what you need to know to minimise these risks.
- Planning and implementation of acquisitions and disposals of private business, focusing on some current trends, issues and risk to be aware of and tips for those planning for deals in 2019.
- Typical risks and claims companies face by reference to specific case examples. We will highlight how those risks could best be avoided, or the liability arising from those risks can be minimised or transferred.
