National Master Builder of the Year title for WA

November 29, 2020

Probuild construction company has won top honours at the Master Builders Australia awards for the magnificent new Ritz-Carlton development.

A month after winning the title of best state project at the Master Builders WA construction awards, the $500 million Elizabeth Quay landmark followed up with two prestigious national prizes.

At the online, live-streamed awards on November 28, Probuild won the National High-rise Apartment Award and was crowned Master Builder of the Year.

Master Builders executive director John Gelavis said West Australian builders proved their quality by winning a total of six awards.

“Winning a state building award is a great achievement but a national award is the supreme triumph,” he said.

“West Australians can feel pride and confidence in the state’s building industry, which has produced some of the best workmanship across Australia.

“Probuild are deserving winners of the national Master Builder of the Year title for their work on the Ritz-Carlton. The high quality throughout in the complex and large-scale project is astonishing.”

Gemmill Homes won the National Display Home title in the under $250,000 category for The Mossvale. The spacious four bed, two bath family home features open plan living, a home theatre, activity room and attractive alfresco. The style includes elements of timber, concrete and copper.

The National Contract Home prize in the $350,000 to $500,000 category was won by AMG Home Builders for a compact two-storey home set down a laneway in Mt Lawley with heritage features such as traditional brickwork, bullnose verandah and front door with lead light panels but the modern convenience of open plan living, four bedrooms and two bathrooms.

Firm Construction was awarded the National Lifestyle Housing for Seniors award for the Juniper Aged Care facility in Karrinyup, a thoughtfully crafted, 120-bed complex built to enable the highest quality of care for residents.

Adrian Zorzi took out the medium density award in the category for more than five dwellings for Overton Terraces in Cottesloe. The apartments exude a relaxed elegance and beachside feel, featuring Portuguese limestone floors, bleached timber cladding and neutral colour tones along with clean lines and large open spaces.
